

Targeted Adjustments In Lightroom and Camera Raw

Collated by Steve Potashner

Targeted adjustments are not global, but are adjustments of specific areas or objects in the image. To make such adjustments, it is necessary to use the masking tools in Lightroom or Camera Raw. The links below provide tutorial videos (not downloads) about these tools. Most of the tutorials use Lightroom, but identical masking tools are available in Camera Raw.

How to make and use masks:

Nicole Young -

Masking in Lightroom (Tutorial starts at the 8:15 min mark.)

Photo Feaver -

How to Use Masking in Lightroom

How To Use Point Color in Lightroom

Nigel Danson –

How To Intersect Masks in Lightroom

Terry Vander Heiden -

Lightroom Masking For Beginners

Top 5 Masks in Lightroom You Need To Know

Matt Kosklowski –

My Favorite Lightroom and Photoshop Masking Tips

Make targeted adjustments using masks:

Nigel Danson –

The 5 Lightroom Masks I Use On Every Photo

Anthony Morganti –

How You Should Use Masking in Lightroom

Is That New Lightroom Sky Masking Method All It's Cracked Up To Be?

Master Selective Color Editing in Lightroom